

Robert Postlethwaite is pleased to have advised Vitamin Brands Limited, the company behind the V Water vitamin-enhanced spring water range, on an equity investment in the company by a large international food conglomerate's venturing arm.

The company's founders, Christopher Coleridge and Walter Faulstroh, comment:

"Robert has been with us from the start, when we raised initial capital from business angel investors. We are naturally delighted that we have been able to raise further development capital from a household name in the food industry, and would like to thank Robert for his help in negotiating and completing this important investment.

His focus and commitment was significant in ensuring that our company and all its shareholders could be confident about the deal. We greatly enjoyed working with Robert, felt that we received excellent value for money and look forward to continuing our relationship."
